Merry Christmas

THESE ARE NO OTHER TWO WORDS that can start the heart strings singing more quickly or more gladly. They express the best human emotions. We cannot improve on them for they form the perfect thought.

ANOTHER YEAR IS DRAWING TO A CLOSE and it has been a better year because of the friendship and goodwill you have shown our pharmacy.

OPERATING A PHARMACY is not like running the average business. We deal principally in good health. Of course, we supply many of the aids to better living that you traditionally like to get from a pharmacy, but primarily we devote our efforts to the compounding of prescriptions and providing you with medicines and health-ads.

WE ARE GRATEFUL that you have given us the opportunity to serve you. Your friendship and patronage enable us to successfully carry on our work on the health team.

AND SO AS ANOTHER YEAR draws to a close, we want to thank you for your part in making it a pleasant one and to sincerely wish you and yours — A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Community Church of Lake Harbor met at the church Wednesday evening with Mrs. Dr. D. Hemphill presiding.

The meeting was opened with a little poem by the hostess.

Mrs. Pope was sorry now that he had made the promise. Christmas poems were not really his line. Dr. Moore was a scholar, a professor of Oriental languages in the University of New York.

Yes, scholarship was more to his taste . . . well, perhaps he would have to disappoint the youngsters.

Moore joked at Peter, seated beside him in the sleigh. Peter had just let out a great sneeze and his broad face and round body shook with the effort.

Moore's nose was red and he turned a cherry red by the cold — with an immense handkerchief. Peter's soft beard, white with snow bobbed as he said:

"Not too long now, sir . . . not an hour and we will be home."

And then Peter gestured toward the sky and added: "A cold night, yes, but a fine one. A full moon was out, cutting the trees and road in light."

"How could I put it?" thought Moore . . . perhaps:

"The moon is on the breast of the new-fallen snow."

"Give the hand of midday to objects below . . ."

Yes, that was pretty good — part of a poem anyway — and with a kind of grumpy satisfaction Moore filed it away in his memory.

He watched as Peter whistled, then shouted to the horse. The sleigh flew swiftly over the snow, easily fast enough. If only they could fly through the sky . . . pulled perhaps by some strange creature of winter . . . reindeer would be wonderful.

Jimmy Mathis, who is a student at Mont Verde School, flew home Thursday for a Christmas vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Mathis.

Mrs. Royal was the guest of her son, Crawford and family in Belle Glade Friday night.

Mrs. and Mrs. Murray Weeks were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Inman Weeks in Pahokee Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stalton and Mrs. E. R. Mackey drove

Floridians Earn 79% Of Total Income Through Private Enterprise

Floridians earned a total of 79 per cent of their total income through private enterprise last year and the balance from all types of government employment and direct payments.

The 79-21 relationship between private and public origins of income from compares with an 83-17 ratio nationally. The higher Florida proportion of income from public sources is a result of the state's attraction to military training and testing facilities, the Florida State Chamber of Commerce said recently.

In only three other states are more military personnel stationed than in Florida, two of these have larger civilian populations than does Florida.

Floridians earned a total of $6,641,000,000 last year from all sources, with $5,265,000,000 of this amount being from private sources. All other states are the result of private initiative, earnings from government contracts for products, services, highway construction, etc., are included in this private total.

Private sources of earnings by principal types of private establishments are given in this business review of the State Chamber's research and industrial division. Income from trade and services reached $3,054,000,000, up 85 per cent since 1950. Manufacturing and mining accounted for $586 million, a gain of 105 per cent.

Contract construction brought $516 million, up 106 per cent. Farming $430 million, a 29 per cent gain; and transportation, communication and utilities $428 million, up 81 per cent. Insurance and finance made up $300 million and registered the largest gain, 117 per cent. These itemized figures cover gross earnings of proprietors and payrolls but exclude corporate earnings and property income.

University Exhibit At State Fair: Agriculture

"Pipeline for Agricultural Progress" will be the theme of the 1958 University of Florida exhibit at the State Fair in Tampa Feb. 4-15.

According to K. S. McMillen, district agent with the Agricultural Extension Service, the pipeline-and-pump idea will draw the flow of the scientific knowledge from the University's network of research through to the ranchers, growers and related agricultural industries.

The 24-foot exhibit will feature the educational models, plans and a testing section.

The "you-are-a-smart-gatorman" testing section will not only check on fair visitors' driving a door key may be a common occurrence but did you ever lose the door?

It happened on the Sunshine State Parkway, Florida's Turnpike, according to Captain C. E. Taylor, Commissioner of Turnpike of the Florida Highway Patrol, which polices the Turnpike.

The door was tied to the top of a car. The ropes came loose and a sudden gust of wind blew the door off the car and onto the turnpike. The driver didn't discover his loss until he arrived home, Captain Taylor said.

Another motorist on the turnpike lost a couple of aluminum car parts.

Driving a door key may be a common occurrence but did you ever lose the door?

"Why don't you bank the curve more? The road is paved with a awful close..." and so, on and on.

The foreman was like a long as he could, then he said, "How does he look for length?"

Still Was The Night

Editor's note: Miss Alford, who is secretary at the First Baptist Church at Belle Glade, has a varied background of radio and television experiences and writes poetry and stories as an avocation, as well as publication. The Herald's Church Editor suggested that Miss Alford submit a verse for this Christmas issue.

Hushed was the night and still the breeze that kissed Judean hills.

The babbling brooks flowed silently, and gently were the rills, Lapping tiny and so prone from their mother's side to stray. Listened with great expectancy to what the shepherd had to say. For the shepherds with their crooks in hand felt the magic of the hour.

Where were the noise of the night and the wolves that would devour?

Still were the song birds on the air and the sky was all aglow. With a hundred million twinkling stars on that night so long ago.

And suddenly the sky flamed bright with a great majestic light, And shepherds and sheep now terrified fell prostrate in their fright.

Such music as angels from on high sang Christmas carols there. The angel came to still the fears and announce the holy birth Of a tiny babe in Bethlehem... the Lord of Heaven and earth. The night awakened instantly and the breeze no longer still. Picked up the angels' glad refrain of "Peace on earth—good will."

The brooks subdued and quiet before, the story gladly told. How One had come to usher in the longed for age of gold, The message echoed through the trees as song birds' wing unfurled. And shepherds left to tell the news that echoed 'round the world!

With so many gifts to wrap this time of the year, paper, cards, ribbons, seals and other packages become a bit of a chore to wrap a number. By using a little imagination, these costs can be kept at a minimum.

Ends of wallpaper rolls, whether left over from your own walls or bought as odds stock at your local stationery, are excellent for packing large packages. Even newspapers can be used to wrap large packages and the wrap seems to be more attractive than the other packages.

Small pieces of aluminum foil or shiny paper from the end of the roll are excellent for wrapping smaller packages. Or if you have a young child who fingerpaints, why not wrap gifts in some of his paintings.

White tissue paper can be quite attractive when fastening it with red or green ink or water with food coloring added.

For seals, cut out crest pictures from old Christmas cards or even small bits of wrapping paper and paste them on the packages. Or you can paste them on a small piece of folded construction paper to make an enclosure card.

Another idea comes or caravans, painted or shiekked and tied on top of the package will catch the eye of both young and old.

It was Christmas in the village of Trenton. Snow-covered rooftops gleamed white in the pale moonlight and the night echoed with the sound of long of Hessian soldiers celebrating the season of peace on earth, goodwill and greater quiet than winter. Christmas trees, first to be seen in America, dangled tinsel and toys. The cobble streets were alive with laughter.

And George Washington went to sleep. Especially did this holiday season of 1776 find little remittance among the soldiers of the Continental Army, under command of George Washington, spending the icy Christmas on the frozen hills of Pennsylvania overlooking the Delaware River.

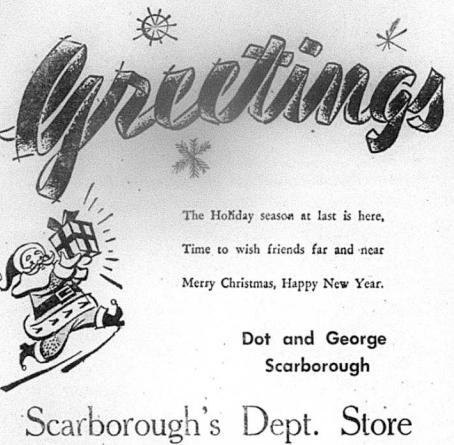

In almost constant retreat since his loss to Lord Howe in the battle of Long Island, Washington was in a desperate situation. Supplies were almost gone. The new year was near and the settlement period for many Americans in British-occupied England was approaching. To pardon all who had taken up arms against the Crown if they would return peacefully to their homes. Washington knew he must taste victory now or never.

By dawn he had loaded 2600 men, 15 cannon, ammunition, and horses into flat-bottomed boats. With lanterns extinguished, the boats began to make slow progress across the river that was clogged with floating ice blocks.

When the church clock at Trenton struck 7 a.m., a young American officer named Alexander Hamilton looked down upon the town from a high hill where he had managed to set up his artillery. Washington gave the signal and the rumble of the cannon echoed through the silent streets of Trenton.

Caught by surprise, the Hessian soldiers flung away their guns and swords and fled for their lives. As the Hessian commandant was about to follow, he was told that an aide to read a message he had received the night before but had not opened. It warned him of Washington's impending attack.

The village of Trenton and 1,000 prisoners were Washington's price. Yet he had done it for his country and for his nation a great Christmas present. His daring attack and surprising victory laid the foundation of independence upon which the nation still grows and prospers.

The Holiday season at last is here,

Time to wish friends far and near

Merry Christmas, Happy New Year.

Charles Wesley, a Methodist minister England wrote "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" on a Christmas eve in 1740. The hymn, Wesley, founder of Methodism, was inspired by the pealing of church bells when he penned the famous carol.

Dig—These Crazy Christmas Gifts

Even Christmas has caught up with the atomic age. A sign of the times is the increasing demand for Geiger counters as Christmas gifts. Manufacturers of people from all over the country are giving as presents the Geiger instrument that measures out uranium.

If you're buying a gift for a prospective uranium prospector you can get him one of the many radioactive detection devices at prices ranging from $24.95 to $200. Most popular model manufacturers say, is about the size of a camera and retails for about $35.

Uranium "hounds" are as varied as the people themselves. They buy and sell uranium with infants in their arms to geologists and hirsute prospectors—as well as business tycoons, clerks, laborers and women. An amateur uranium prospector's club in the East, composed entirely of women, is known as the "Geiger Widows."

Last year gift Geiger were mailed all over the United States. One woman sent one to the New York office of a leading manufacturing firm from Florida to order a $1,995 unit as a Christmas surprise for her husband.

TALKING TO SANTA ... It's an old, old story that's run every year for thousands of children, that visiting Santa in the old department store to talk about what's to go in the Christmas stocking. Most always, there's a proud parent standing nearby to do a little prompting if necessary.

The old joke about Dad "mammolizing" Junior's train is ceasing to be a joke, according to some toy producers, who contend that this year there will be toys for adults under the Christmas tree.

Mr. Fay V. Zimmerman, president of one of the largest hand puppet makers in the world, recently told toy buyers and salesmen that "toys made specifically for adults to play with will make a mark on the present popularity of children's toys."

The man behind a little unassuming and optimistic (for the toy industry), but Mr. Zimmerman says the theory is neither radical or new. "It's certainly," he says, "true that there has been a place for children's toys under the guise it was for Junior's sake, but that's a lot of toys. They enjoy playing with them kids do, but they're too ashamed to admit it."

Right or wrong, several major toy companies are producing specific adult toys this year.

Grandfather Frost Is Russian Santa

Christmas in Russia? Behind the Iron Curtain it's Grandfather Frost who delights the children.

Grandfather Frost (really an actor from the Moscow stage) was revived by the Russians two years ago. Through most of the month of January, thousands of Russian children dance around a fir tree in St. George's Hall and may shake hands with Grandfather Frost, the Russian Santa Claus.

Grandfather Frost entertains the children with the aid of singers, dancing girls, and acrobats from the theaters. Last year, for the first time, American correspondents were admitted to the Kremlin to see one of the gatherings.

*'With Proper Care,
Poinsettia Plant
Will Bloom Again'*

The popular Christmas plant, the poinsettia, need not be discarded when the holiday is over. The right care can keep it in condition for blooming again next year.

Horticulture specialists say you need not be alarmed about dropping the temperature of the plant. Means the plant is going into its normal rest period, which lasts about May 1.

After the first fall, put the plant in a cool place—40 to 50 degrees—and water sparingly. About May 1, cut the plant back to within 6 inches of the base, wood and make it more shapely. Shake off the old soil and repeat in a mixture of three parts garden soil, one part peat moss, one part sand and one part leafmold. Use a pot just large enough to hold the mass of new soil, adding air and providing good drainage. Water enough to keep the soil from drying out.

After another month, when weather is warm, set the potted plant outdoors, submerged the pot in the soil at ground level or in a tub of water. If the sun shines unless the weather is very hot. In that case, give it light shade. When night comes, the fall comes, bring the plant indoors. If good light and air and where temperature is about 60 to 65 degrees, but not hot. If the soil dries out, so the soil never dries out and use a little liquid fertilizer every week.

Water plants, uninterrupted by even a short of artificial light, are needed to bring the poinsettia into flower.

We'd like to crowd in our good wishes for a very merry Christmas packed with happiness!

OUR GREETING...

The spirit of the Christmas season is tied in with our good wishes!

The evergreen bough, mistletoe and holly used as Christmas decorations have been associated with ceremony and curious custom for thousands of years.

The mistletoe, raised an evergreen branch at the December festival of Saturnalia, honoring the god of sowing.

Long before the Christian era, the ancient Scandinavians held the mistletoe sacred and hung it over their doorways as charms.

They also worshipped the Holly and the Yule log. Driven brought in a great Yule log at the feast of the winter solstice and lighted it from a brand of the log of the year.

In parts of Europe the first tree used for Christmas decorations were dormant branches of fruit trees. These were raised indoors several weeks before Christmas and covered in bloom by Christmas time. Holly, the subject of the Yule log, was chosen because its prickly leaves were thought to represent the bairns' teeth and its red berries drops of Mistletoe.

In parts of Sicily an olive tree is decorated today with oranges in some cases the flowers are raised in bunches of evergreens. In keeping with a story told all over medieval Europe that on the night of the Nativity the olive tree in the stable, though cloaked in ice and snow,
burst into bloom and bore fruit.

All over the world this Christmas each country will celebrate the occasion in its traditional way.

Newborn Baby Was An Inspiration

The professional songwriters along Tin Pan Alley are used to turning out songs under pressure.

But few of these "pressurized products" can ever expect a long night. Perhaps it is left to the amateurs to accomplish this feat. Certainly, when two men composed a song in the Austrian village of Oberndorf in 1918, they wrote under pressure.

The Reverend Josef Mohr and organist Franz Gruber of the tiny church of St. Nicholas had spent many days and nights preparing for a Christmas program. Now, with just six hours before the start of the midnight Mass, it seemed they had labored in vain.

Father Mohr and Franz Gruber had been lamenting that the church organ was broken and could not be prepared in time.

Hearing this, Father Mohr decided to see if he could prepare a special sermon for the midnight Mass that he hoped would carry the message of Christmas in just a few words.

As Father Mohr sat with his sheet of blank paper before him, he was interrupted by a sharp pounding at the door. A man was calling on the phone to go up into the mountain where his son had given birth to a baby. The mother wanted the child baptized at once.

Outside the snow was falling steadily. The narrow streets of Oberndorf were choked with drifts. It would take hours to climb the mountain. It could not be done in time.

Father Mohr thought of this, and reached for his hat and coat. He walked through the snow, passing through a silent graveyard, or that flock was to find the message of Christmas in their own hearts, if not from his pocket.

The journey seemed to take an eternity, but, oddly, the sight of the happy, radiant mother and her new baby made Father Mohr forget about the difficult struggle he had undertaken. Later, as he jumped home through the snow, his thoughts dwelt not on a sermon, but on the most important church service.

The words to a poem began forming in his mind, and by the time Father Mohr kicked the snow from his boots and sat down in the chair in his study, the poem was finished.

The organist, Franz Gruber, waited while Father Mohr wrote the words down on a sheet of paper. Gruber read the poem and said, "This would make a fine Christmas carol."

And so Gruber set the poem to music, and the air of the church organ.

Shortly afterward, as Father Mohr was about to finish saying the Mass, he heard a sound of chimes. It was a thin sound of a 12-string guitar. Gruber was strumming it. And with the sound came faltering voices of the children in the church choir. Voices as they strained to read the words written on a single piece of paper. And as the feeling of the song permeated them, the sweetness of their voices took on the overwhelming warmth that no organ could match.

This, though Father Mohr as he had worked for the Christmas message, for the organ and the choir. And this was the message. Father Mohr and Franz Gruber gave to the world on that night in 1918 . . . The message that says:

"Silent Night, Holy Night
All Is Calm, All Is Bright
Round Yon Virgin Mother
And Child . . ."

Christmas Sorrow.

Each year highway accidents and deaths touch their peak at Christmas time.

Ice, sleet and snow, early darkness, drinking, the holiday rush and festivity, and carelessness combine to make December the bugabo month for traffic. In thousands of homes last Christmas, joy was shattered by the tragedy of a traffic accident.

But the National Safety Council, with the cooperation of 169 other national organizations, is seeking "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents," which was launched last December, to encourage public officials to step up the attack on traffic accidents and to stimulate acceptance of personal responsibility for safety.

The first month is encouraging. During the first nine months of the year, the daily toll dropped 3 per cent from the same period for the previous year — a saving of 800 lives in the coming weeks — not with money or time, but with just more care in driving and walking — all of us may have a really merry Christmas in 1957.
